Statement from the Executive Committee of PCPE on the TTIP

For the working class and the peoples. No to TTIP, no to monopolies, no to EU.

For the working class and the peoples. No to TTIP, no to monopolies, no to EU.

The Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (TTIP), whose terms are being currently negotiated between the US Department of Commerce and the European Commission, represents the new attempt of international capitalism, particularly from the US and European monopolistic associations, to unleash a new offensive against workers and popular majorities in their respective countries with the aim to reshape the relations of antagonism and interdependence which today govern the status quo between imperialist poles.

The secrecy of the successive rounds of negotiations reveals how perverse this economic partnership between the European Union and the United States is. Despite promises by the oligarchy and their government representatives about the alleged benefits that the implementation of this area of free trade and investment would mean for the working class of our countries, the fact is that it is but a new step forward of the national oligarchies on the way to new levels of exploitation and subjugation. This, and no other, is the future for the working people can expect from the membership of their country to a project such as the European Union, which only serves the interests of the monopolies since its creation.

The most basic labour and trade union rights, environmental law, the public nature of some services such as health and education, and so many more issues are some of the core elements of these negotiations, by which is intended to ensure higher rates of profit for monopolies and provide a higher degree of concentration and centralization of capital worldwide. Given a declaration of war of such magnitude, it is necessary that the working people of our respective countries stand up and articulate the counteroffensive against the new plans and alliances of monopolies, whose implementation would only result in deep impoverishment of their general conditions of life and work.

We call on the whole working class, the students of popular extraction, the peasantry and the intelligentsia to categorically reject the perks through which the monopolies are seeking to make them accept as their own interests those which are really totally unrelated to them: the interests of a tiny and oligarchic minority against large sections of the population.

We also call them to point and despise any sign of explicit or implicit collusion with the intentions of monopolies by opportunistic organizations whose sole purpose is to blind the working class of our countries with ambiguous and deceptive statements about the alleged reformable character the European Union.

Greeting message to the event of KP, Turkey Istanbul.

November 9th, 2014

Dear Comrades, dear friends,

It is a pleasure to be with you all at this event organized by our fraternal party, the Communist Party, to honor the 97th anniversary of the Great October Socialist Revolution and to assert its relevance today, when the working class and the peoples of the world are facing a deep capitalist crisis.

Today, we are witnessing how the bourgeois governments systematically attack the hard-won rights of the working class of our countries, on behalf of the profit of big monopolies. The ruling classes, frightened in the twentieth century by the existence of the Soviet Union and a large number of socialist countries, accepted to offer the working class of the capitalist countries a set of rights and social gains which they have always wanted to remove. Today, capitalists are only interested in the workers as cheap labour force, with no rights, no matter their labour conditions or their safety, as we have witnessed in the cases of the miners in Soma and Karaman.

In our time, after the restoration of capitalism in the former socialist countries, we see how our rights are being dismantled through increased working hours, salary reductions, delayed retirement age, degradation of public services wherever they still exist and their subsequent privatization for the enrichment of the capitalist friends of bourgeois governments.

In this situation of constant attacks, in this real war that capitalists have declared against the working class and the working people since the triumph of the counterrevolution in the socialist camp and, in an accelerated manner, after the outbreak of the current capitalist crisis, capitalists use every tool at their disposal to keep the people quiet, to avoid their response in a revolutionary direction.

One of the tools used by the class enemy are the reactionary ideologies, the recourse to religion, nationalism, xenophobia and racism, all ideologies that prevent the working class from recognizing their class interests, that hinder the unity of the working class and put the workers under someone else's banners, under someone else's interests.

In the current phase of capitalist development, the bourgeoisie has nothing to offer to the working class except more exploitation and misery. The progressive role that the bourgeoisie once had, a bourgeoisie who overthrew the ancient regime and established capitalism, is now exhausted.

The male and female workers produce everything, generate all the wealth in our countries. Through our work, we are able to meet the needs of the entire population. But the bourgeoisie, the capitalists and the governments that serve them stand in our way, prevent social production to reach all members society. They impose their rules and anarchy in production, thereby allowing millions of people to starve in our countries and throughout the world.

Capitalism and capitalists have become an obstacle for Humanity, and therefore the working class must conquer political power and build socialism.

But, in order to achieve this, it is not enough that our goal is clear. We have to work every day in the workplaces, in the study centers and in popular neighborhoods to win specific battles, battles that allow the working class and the whole working people to be aware that they can win, that victories are possible, and that we have the power to change the current state of affairs.

PCPE is committed to this arduous task, struggling daily with the working class without losing the horizon of socialism, just like our Turkish brothers from the Communist Party. Because only socialism can guarantee the meeting of the needs of all mankind.

Long live the Great October Socialist Revolution!

Long live the fraternity between the Communist Party and the PCPE!

Long Live proletarian internationalism!

Greeting message to the event on the October Revolution.

Rome, November 8th, 2014

Dear Comrades,

on behalf of all the members of the PCPE, we convey the most fraternal greetings to all comrades and friends of the Communist Party of Italy who are present in this event.

We deeply appreciate that you have invited us to participate with you in this activity commemorating the Great October Socialist Revolution, the first successful proletarian revolution, from whose experience we continue extracting important lessons and teachings today.

97 years have passed since the Bolsheviks, led by Lenin, stormed the Winter Palace and put in place the power of the Soviets and the beginning of socialist construction in Russia. The historical importance of this heroic revolution and the subsequent socialist construction should not be used only for remembrance and homage, but must be claimed today with all its timeliness and importance.

The triumph of the Great October Socialist Revolution proved that the working class, organized within the Communist Party, the Leninist party of the new type, is able to seize power, is able to become master of its own destiny.

The triumph of the Great October Socialist Revolution abolished the private ownership of the basic means of production, broke the economic base that sustained the capitalist regime and swept the remnants of feudalism, while destroying the bourgeois state and building a socialist state.

The triumph of the Great October Socialist Revolution proved to social-democrats and opportunists that the revolutionary positions triumphed despite all attacks suffered and despite all the hesitations that these forces inoculated to the working class.

The subsequent socialist construction in the Soviet Union proved to mankind that the rights and the most basic needs of people could be met largely without recourse to the mechanisms that were typical of capitalist exploitation.

Today we are fighting to maintain the rights achieved over many years of struggle of the working class and popular sectors, such as free education, health and essential public services under quality conditions. The capitalists, through the policies privatization of the various governments, they want to increase their profits with these services. We may recall that these rights were fully respected in the Soviet Union.

Today we fight for stable jobs with rights, while the governments of the bourgeoisie are determined to impose ever more precarious work and low salaries. They want us to work longer hours for less money. We may recall that in the USSR the job was secured, and housing, and social services, and many other achievements that capitalists want to erase from the memory of mankind.

Today we also fight against the imperialist war, against the arms race and the policies of intervention and plunder against the peoples. We aspire, just like the Soviet Union and the whole socialist block did, to the world peace on the basis of social justice, of a world without the exploitation of man by man.

Comrades, friends, events like these are needed more than ever, they are essential because they enable the new generations of workers to understand that capitalist propaganda is a lie, that our living and working conditions can indeed be improved if we seize the sky by assault, if we organize under the banner of the only organization capable of bringing the whole of the working class and popular sectors to victory: the Communist Party.

Long live the Great October Socialist Revolution!

Long live the fraternity between the Communist Party of Italy and the PCPE!

Everything for the working class!
